

2025 Western Snow Conference Short Course

Monday, May 19, 2025 9:00 - 3:00

NASA Western Water Applications Office Needs Assessment

Please join us for a special needs assessment meeting and presentation by members of NASA's Western Water Applications Office (WWAO).

WWAO has conducted user needs assessments where they bring together the water community to listen to their needs and review with them the available NASA data sets and tools available. The needs of the water users, managers and community are prioritized and WWAO will work with interested organizations in the basin to co-fund projects and develop applications which are transitioned to the partnered organization.

Invitees would be any registrant to the WSC meeting with an emphasis on operators and researchers. After an overview presentation, the attendees will break into working groups where the needs of the snow community would be explored and then prioritized by all attendees. WWAO would provide an assessment workshop report and look to co-fund projects based on the prioritized needs.

Lunch is included in the Short Course registration.
